

Patient Advisory Panel for Research

Would you like to contribute your perspectives on research initiatives on intracranial hypotension?

Who can apply?

The panel member should be an individual affected by intracranial hypotension as a patient, family member, or caregiver who can provide critical and constructive feedback.

Patient panel advisory members should:

- have experience of intracranial hypotension either as a patient, caregiver, or relative
- have basic familiarity with medical terminology associated with spinal CSF leak
- have a basic understanding or knowledge of the research process and interest in learning more

Patient panel advisory members should:

- be able to provide critical and constructive feedback
- have good analytical and networking skills
- have confidence to voice your own opinions clearly and participate in group discussion
- be willing to listen and respect differing opinions
- have an awareness of equality and diversity
- be able to meet the time commitment

Roles

- Attend online orientation & training sessions in addition to working meetings.
- Prepare for web-conference meetings by reviewing any materials in advance.
- Be available to complete online surveys on short notice as needed.
- Share your perspectives on research priorities where appropriate.
- Ensure that discussions consider how the work fits with our research strategy & objectives to help drive patient benefit.
- Review & evaluate research proposals as requested.
- Provide feedback on study design.
- Provide feedback on ongoing research studies where appropriate.
- Respect the viewpoints of others in the group.
- Identify opportunities for wider patient involvement in research studies.

What is the time commitment?

- online orientation & training sessions
- 2-4 meetings/yr held by web-conference
- prep for each meeting: review of documentation for several hours
- respond to online surveys for study input

Is this a paid position?

No. This is a volunteer role.

How to apply

Go to spinalcsfleak.org/patient-advisory-panel
or scan the QR code below

Complete the application
by 5 pm EST July 1, 2021.

